Ask A Genius 145 – Wrestling Trans and Fake IDs¹
Scott Douglas Jacobsen & Rick Rosner
April 11, 2017

[Beginning of recorded material]

Rick Rosner: There are four factors that other people are lucky to have one of. The Zipf-Pareto represent the luck of getting the trifecta, quadfecta of circumstances.

Scott Douglas Jacobsen: Also, it can have an individual choice. A top player in one curve distribution can jump into another. One case, which was interesting, was a man who became a trans-woman and was a wrestler, and began dominating [Laughing] women's wrestling.

RR: There was a kid in Texas that went 159 and 0 because she was born a girl, but is trans, and is undergoing treatment, and was a good wrestler anyway. Now is living in Texas, but Texas being Texas, they won't let her wrestle as a boy. So she as a boy is going to wrestle a bunch of girls to wrestle, and she unbeatable. He's unbeatable. He's a boy now, but being forced to wrestle as a girl.

It is also colonizing—there can be the “Colonizer Effect,” which is the first organism to open a niche will be super productive if it is a new niche. I opened a sport where I am the all-time champion because I am the only contestant. Fake IDs, in bars, I caught 6,000 of them. I am the only participant in the sport. Others may temporarily partake in the sport. Someone may come to LA and work at a bar while they try to make it as an actor.

Somebody who is a bouncer for 3 months in between other stuff may catch 2 dozen ideas. I was rapid for IDs. I caught 6,000 of them. I caught another 6,000 people inside of bars. People in bars that sneaked in, in side doors, and found them and booted them out. I was the king of fake IDs
